Quick Fall Golf Tips

Fall is a favorite time of year for many golfers; the weather is cooler and more comfortable and the scenery on the Cape is beautiful as the leaves begin to change colors. It is also the perfect time of year to practice and make some changes that will improve your game, and lower your handicap for the 2013 season.

Club Selection

Do you use a variety of clubs around the green for pitching and chipping? Instead of sticking with your pitching wedge & sand wedge, try using a variety of clubs to see if you can find greater consistency. Remember to change the ball position accordingly, with the ball toward the front foot for high, gentle shots, and toward your back foot for longer and lower shots. As the temperatures drop, you will notice that you are not getting as much distance. Remember that you may need to choose more club on a chilly day.

Get more practice

Fall is a great time to get out on the course and the range and get more practice to improve your score. Since the weather is cooler, it's often more enjoyable to spend time out at the course, or driving range practicing. Fall can be a great time to analyze your game and where you need to improve. Take a lesson or attend a clinic that specializes in this area, and then get out there and practice!

Rainy Day Golf Tips

As we know, the fall can sometimes bring a day of chilly rain, but that doesn't mean you need to stay at home. Today's modern rain gear made of high-tech fabrics will keep you dry without causing you to sweat, and a pair of rain gloves work great so you won't lose your grip. Be careful to keep your clubs and grips dry by taking the time to place a cover or towel over the opening of the bag. Keep in mind that if the ground is wet, the roll will decrease.

LASTS AND LASTS AND LASTS.™

Hurricane & Storm Preparedness

Fortunately, Cape Cod does not suffer from annual hurricane damage, but it is a vulnerable area, and we do need to be prepared for the Hurricane Season which continues through November 30. Nor'easters which occur in this region more commonly throughout the year can also cause significant damage from strong winds, heavy rain, and flying debris. Natural disasters are not within our control, however being prepared to keep our family safe is our responsibility.

Every family should develop a Family Action Plan so that if disaster strikes, you are well prepared. Make sure everyone in your family knows what the plan is and where your emergency meeting spot is. Teach young children how and when to dial 911 during an emergency, both with a regular landline phone as well as a cell phone. It is also important to label and familiarize yourself and other responsible family members with the locations of the circuit breaker box, main water shutoff, and any gas line shutoffs. Investigate your home's vulnerability to storm surge, flooding and wind, and check your insurance coverage. It is also a good idea to take photos or videos of your home's interior and exterior for insurance purposes, and store them at a friend's or relative's house.

Nothing can replace the loss of decades of memories established in a home or efforts invested into building a business so it is smart to protect your property with durable hurricane screens and shutters. Hurricane shutters are affordable, lightweight, and easy to deploy with the push of a button, or you can even have the option to operate them remotely via the internet. Hurricane shutters also provide protection from break-ins and vandalism which makes them ideal for those second homes. Much of the damage from hurricanes can be prevented by storm shutters for the windows and doors.

Falling trees and limbs pose one of the greatest dangers to life and property during a hurricane or Nor'easter. Homeowners should be sure to take care of tree maintenance prior to the time a hurricane is forecasted. Pruning and removing dead and damaged tree limbs from trees reduces the number of branches which can become projectiles or fall on your house during a wind storm. Damage to homes and power lines can be prevented or reduced by pruning, and the removal of any dead trees. Regularly pruned trees are healthier, more attractive and safer.

Another consideration that will make a disaster such as a hurricane or Nor'easter more tolerable is a permanently installed generator. While dining by candlelight may be fun, when the power is out for days on end, a self-contained backup system can keep your refrigerator and computer running, and water and heat running. And it is more than just convenience in the winter when the heat is running, your water pipes won't freeze. Best of all, modern systems power up automatically when the power fails, whether you are at home asleep, or away on vacation.

Be prepared, you can't prevent the weather, but you can take steps to minimize damage and protect your family.

For further information & safety tips, you can contact the Cape Cod Chapter of the American Red Cross at (508) 775-1540.

Buying a Home

Prepare by getting your finances in order

(ARA) - For those considering buying a home, the current real estate market presents some unique opportunities. One of the side effects of the economic roller coaster ride of the past few years is that home prices have gone down and more homes have gone on the market. For buyers, that means more choices and better deals. However, those same tumultuous years also can also teach buyers a lesson: Make smart buying decisions and be wise with your finances.

Impulsive buying is never a good idea when it comes to a purchase as significant as a home, but it was something of a trend at the height of the mid-2000s. Now, with banks lending far more cautiously, you need to be absolutely certain that your finances are in order - and healthy - to be able to get the best deal on your purchase.

There are a number of steps you can take to get ready to buy a home, and you might need to work on them simultaneously. Consider that you'll need to start saving, if you haven't already, but you'll also need to review your credit score and do what you can to either maintain it or work toward healthier credit. Both of these tasks will help make the home-buying process better for you.

Your credit is an important factor in determining the terms under which you can get a mortgage. Broadly speaking, the better your credit is, the more positively you'll be viewed by lenders - and that can lead to better interest rates. And because you'll be paying off your home for years to come, it's important to get the best rate possible.

Start by checking your credit report. As much as you need to check your report to find out what shape your credit is in, it's also essential to review it for inaccuracies or fraudulent activity, both of which can have a negative impact on your score.

If your credit health needs some work, start taking action immediately. Paying bills on time, reducing your overall debt and limiting new credit inquiries can all help to build your credit - but be patient as it can take time for your positive actions to take effect. Nevertheless, the sooner you make the effort, the sooner you'll see results.

Making a prudent decision about buying a house comes down to an honest assessment of what you can afford. Keep in mind that you might be approved for a loan that's larger than what is practical for you to afford. While it may be tempting to buy a pricier house, the stress of struggling to make payments could diminish your enjoyment of your new home and even put you at financial risk. One rule of thumb is that most borrowers can afford a home loan that runs about two and a half times their annual salary.

Buying a home is a complex process, but one that is ultimately very rewarding when done right. By organizing your finances well in advance, you'll help set yourself up for success.
